

2004 PRE-BUDGET REPORT IN LONDON

The Chancellor announced a series of measures that promote productivity growth, flexibility and fairness, alongside high and stable levels of employment, in London, today. The Government's long-term goal is for the UK to achieve a faster rate of productivity growth than its main competitors.

To increase regional involvement in national policies, the London Development Agency has today been asked to provide policy advice to feed into Budget 2005, in a number of areas: aligning regional transport, housing and economic development strategies and associated funding; business support; establishing the concept of science cities; the role of the Voluntary and Community Sector in regeneration of deprived communities; creating a culture of enterprise for all; sustainable development; and strengthening regional partnerships in adult skills provision. This builds on their input to last year's Budget.

Government proposals are published in a consultation document aimed at better integrating decisions on regional transport, economic development and housing. The proposals in this consultation do not apply directly to London because of its different institutional arrangements. However, the Government would ensure that London was treated in a similar way where it has similar arrangements, particularly in benefiting from longer term planning assumptions for housing and economic development.

The PBR also announces that Bryan Jackson, the new chairman of the East Midlands Development Agency, will work with all RDAs to develop a framework to ensure that focused, tailored coaching is available in each region to business that will benefit most.

Measures announced today which are particularly relevant to individuals and business in London include:

- implementation of the changes recommended by the Graham Review on the Small Firms Loan Guarantee - a major deregulation and simplification of the scheme, with 547 firms in London typically benefiting each year;
- new legislation effective from today to remove the tax uncertainty for researchers involved in spin-off companies by university and public sector research establishment. Potentially benefiting the 43 Higher Education and Research Institutions in London;

- creation of a national employer skills programme, building on principles and lessons learnt from employer training pilots to ensure those without NVQ Level 2 are able to train for one through their employer. Potentially providing up to 20,000 additional NVQ Level 2 qualifications in London;
 - details of New Deal for Skills Pilots including new pilots to test a learning allowance to help low skilled benefit claimants access full-time training without losing their benefit;
 - female entrepreneurship - Details of the new Women's Enterprise Panel to champion and support female entrepreneurs. Announcement of Isabella Moore as the Panel's chair. The Global Entrepreneurship monitor shows levels of female entrepreneurship varies across the regions, 6.6% of the female population of London were engaged in entrepreneurial activity in 2003;
 - the Government intends to build on the success of the New Deal, and has set out its proposals in Building on New Deal, to devolve more responsibility to local managers, to deliver support better tailored to individuals needs. The proposals will be tested in 11 prototype areas from October 2005, including one in North East London;
 - the basic state pension will rise to £82.05 for single pensioners and £131.20 for couples from April 2005. 953,000, pensioner households in London are eligible;
 - raising Pension Credit Guarantee element to £109.55 for single pensioners, £167.20 for couples from April 2005. 275,000 pensioner households in London are eligible;
 - from April 2005 the child element of the Child Tax Credit will rise to £1690, an increase of 3.8% in line with earnings. 203,700 working families in London will benefit;
 - from 2006-07 increase in the maximum share of childcare costs met in the childcare element of Working Tax Credit from 70% to 80% 33,000 families in London will benefit; and
 - £50 Council Tax and living expenses payment for the 70+. 489,000 pensioner households in London will benefit.
