

The Pre-Budget Report: A fiscal stimulus to support families and businesses in the East of England now

This week's Pre-Budget Report set out the next steps the Government is taking to support the economy, business and households through these difficult times and to maintain macroeconomic stability in the long-term. As part of the Pre-Budget Report, the Government announced a major fiscal stimulus package worth £20bn in 2008-09 and 2009-10, which will support families and businesses in the East of England right now.

The PBR announced targeted help for families and pensioners in the East of England:

- As part of a fiscal stimulus package, there will be a temporary reduction in the standard rate of VAT to 15% from 1 December 2008 until 31 December 2009. This is the equivalent, for the average UK household, of £275 a year for extra spending and will have a positive impact on 2,430,149 households in the East of England. The total benefit to households in the region is estimated at around £ 725 million.
- The Government announces that it will make a payment in the New Year of £60 for each pensioner, equivalent to bringing forward uprating of the basic State Pension from April to January. A £60 payment will also be made to 2.5m individuals who are in receipt of certain other benefits. Eligibility will be the same as for the annual Christmas Bonus. Around 1,300,000 individuals will benefit in East of England
- The Government will bring forward its commitment to increase the child element of the Child Tax Credit by £25 above indexation in April 2010 to April 2009. The child element will therefore increase by £75 above indexation to £2,235. 295,000 families and 565,000 children will benefit.
- The Government will bring forward its commitment to increase Child Benefit from £18.80 to £20 per week for the first child, and from £12.55 to £13.20 per week for subsequent children to January 2009. Benefiting 671,850 families

The Government will bring forward £3bn of capital spending from 2010-11 to 2008-09 and 2009-10, the years when the impact of the shock is likely to be the strongest. Examples of spending brought forward in this region include:

- Department for Children, Schools and Families: Bringing forward £800 million of education capital spending across England will provide opportunities for businesses locally and allow schools and children to benefit early from important projects to improve school buildings. The Government will now invest a total of £7.2 billion capital in schools and children's services in England in 2009-10. In the East of England, this builds on almost £2.7 billion of investment committed to schools over the last 11 years.
- Department for Transport: The Department for Transport will bring forward £700m to increase capacity on the motorways and other critical highways, and to accelerate the delivery of up to 200 new carriages on the rail network.
- Warm front: £150m of new and accelerated spending on the Warm Front programme, which provides free/subsidised heating and energy efficiency measures for low income households. Around 5,1000 households could receive free/subsidised heating or energy efficiency.
- Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills: £50m of capital spending brought forward from the Large Facilities Capital Fund will include spending on a number of scientific research projects including the Laboratory of Molecular Biology at Cambridge.
- Department for Communities and Local Government: Bringing forward of investment in new social housing stock will help impact on the 5,900 households deemed in priority need of housing in the East Of England.

The Chief Secretary to the Treasury, Yvette Cooper, said:

"Families and businesses in the East of England need real help now to deal with the pressures and problems from the global credit crunch. I think it is really important that Government steps in to help people and boost the economy at a difficult time. Too often in the past previous Governments turned their backs on people in East of England when recessions hit. Instead we want to help people so we get through this sooner and stronger, together."

Welcoming the benefits of the fiscal stimulus for the East of England, regional minister Barbara Follett said:

"Britain's dynamic labour market means that we are better placed than most to deal with rising unemployment. The fact that there are currently 30,028 vacant jobs in the East of England is another hopeful sign. This fact, combined with the measures announced in this year's pre-budget report, should mean that those people in the Eastern region looking for work, or facing redundancy, can be helped back into employment as quickly as possible."
